Anyone on point to revise the table one last time to reflect Friday's decisions?

Keith

It was a productive session. Thanks to Karen for the notes--and to all for the good and efficient discussion right on the verge of the holidays.

Over the past couple months, we probably surprised ourselves by putting together an admirably comprehensive approach to stormwater sampling that can be implemented this water year. We reached agreement on the analytical approach and sampling locations rather easily. Where we moved yesterday away from several specific sites, we understand that they will be evaluated in a consistent manner in the next water year. The analytical techniques we have developed should be applicable in service to the water column contribution, recontamination and source tracing objectives. In addition, the end-of-the-pipe sampling concern raised recently by Dawn will be reviewed one more time by the tech team to make sure they have had a chance to consider her viewpoint carefully. They will let us know if they see the need to change the sampling approach based on that review.

Otherwise, with what should be a relatively straightforward clarification on the role of LWG, we have laid out the package and can move forward with its implementation. It took a lot of effort, but our ability to do it bodes well for whatever challenges lay ahead on the site work. I hope everyone has a good and well-deserved holiday and I'll see you after the New Year. For now, I'm going fishing.

Sounds like a productive meeting today. Happy Holidays everyone!

Keith

PS Thanks to Jim A for sitting in for me.

Attached are the draft notes. I did not include discussion of the letter EPA will be drafting nor the legal issues discussed at the meeting's end.

Please let me know if any additions or edits are needed.

Happy holidays all!

Karen
